THE CUBS COACHING STAFF

BOBBY ADAMS 51

A veteran of 14 major league seasons, Bobby played for the Cubs in 1957, 1958, and the early part of 1959. . . . After finishing the '59 season at Seattle, he became secretary of the Association of Professional Baseball Players of America, a post he held until February, 1961, when he joined the Cubs coaching staff. . . . Bobby spent most of his big-league career with Cincinnati and was briefly with the White Sox and Baltimore before coming to the Cubs. . . . A versatile infielder, he played third base, second, and first while with the Cubs, and also saw service at shortstop and in the outfield during his career. . . . He started out in pro ball at Ogden in the Pioneer League in 1939. . . . Spent 3 years in military service during World War II.

JAMES (RIP) COLLINS 55

Rip served with the Cubs in 1961 for the first time since 1938 when he helped the club win the National League pennant as a player. . . . He had been out of baseball for 10 years, 9 of which he spent with Wilson Sporting Goods Co. in the baseball division. . . . Rip was a member of the Cardinals' famous "Gashouse Gang" from 1931 through '36. . . . Always a standout at first base with the glove, he enjoyed his finest season in 1934, when he hit .333, led the League in slugging percentage at .615, fielded .991. . . . Has managed 9 years in the lower classifications—5 at Albany, two at San Diego, and two at Hartford. . . . In his years with the Cardinals, Rip played on two National League pennant winners and two World Series winners.

CHARLIE GRIMM 50

Charlie Grimm's long record of valuable service with the Cubs began in 1924 when a trade with Pittsburgh brought him to Chicago for 12 great seasons as player and player-manager. . . . As a first baseman he set fielding records that establish him as one of the best of all time. . . . And he starred at the plate, too, with a .290 average over 20 big-league seasons. . . . Charlie led the Cubs to pennants in 1932 and 1935, then returned to lead the club to another flag in 1945. . . . Later he managed the Braves several seasons, then rejoined the Cubs as vice-president in 1956, to help develop young players in the Cubs system. . . . He managed the Cubs again early in the 1960 season, also directed the 1960 Cubs team in the Arizona Winter Instructional League.

VEDIE HIMSL 54

Vedie was appointed to the Cubs coaching staff in May of the 1960 season to specialize in working with pitchers. . . . Previously he had circulated among the associated clubs in the

He returned to St. Paul as pitcher and coach in 1946. . . . From 1947 thru '51 he was with the Cardinals system as business manager, field manager, and scout. . . . Became the first head coach in major league history when he was named to that position at the start of the 1961 Cubs season.

GOLDIE HOLT 57

The Cubs obtained Goldie Holt's services in January, 1961, on the basis of his success in helping develop several outstanding young pitchers in the Los Angeles Dodgers organization. . . . He played infield and outfield in league classifications up through AAA, including service in 1937 with the Los Angeles Angels, then associated with the Cubs and with Kansas City and Newark in the Yankee organization. . . . He has managed 14 years, most recently at Spokane in 1958, and was a coach with the Pittsburgh Pirates under Billy Meyer in 1948-50. . . . During his years as coach and manager, Goldie developed a special knack for working with young pitchers. . . . In the 1959-60 seasons he served as roving pitching coach in the Dodgers' organization.

LOU KLEIN 60

Lou had been managing at Houston in the American Association just before joining the Cubs coaching staff on July 18 last season. . . . Earlier in 1961 he had piloted the Carlsbad, N. M., club in the Cubs system. . . . Was a Cub coach in the early part of the 1960 season, then became a special assignment scout. . . . Previously he had successfully managed 4 clubs in the Cubs system—Lafayette, Des Moines, Memphis, Ft. Worth. . . . Led Ft. Worth to the Texas League pennant in 1958. . . . A good hitter and versatile infielder, he entered the majors with the St. Louis Cardinals in 1943, played 3 years in the Mexican League, 1946-48, then returned to the Cardinals. . . . Served as Cub head coach during part of September last season.

Pitching is his instructional specialty. . . . Fred's active career as a pitcher spanned a period of 24 years. . . . He started out with Siloam Springs, Ark., in the St. Louis Cardinals system in 1935. . . . At the age of 44 he was a relief pitcher with Houston in 1959. . . . After 4 years in the Army during World War II, he joined the Cardinals in 1946. . . . He went to the Mexican League that same year, and returned to the Cardinals in 1949. . . . Had experience as player-manager with the Dallas club before joining the Cubs organization in 1960.

CHARLIE METRO 63

Newest member of the coaching staff, Charlie Metro comes to the Cubs with a sparkling record as manager in the lower classifications—both in developing young players and winning ball games. . . . He was signed by the Cubs on Oct. 24, 1961, after serving as player-manager and manager of 10 clubs in the last 15 years. . . . All but one finished in the first division, and he had 3 pennant winners and 3 other teams that won their league playoffs. . . . With Vancouver in 1957-59 (Baltimore system) and Denver in 1960-61 (Detroit system), he helped develop some of baseball's brightest young stars. . . . He's particularly strong on outfield and infield instruction. . . . An outfielder, he began his playing career at Easton, Pa., in 1937. . . . Played briefly in the majors with Detroit (1943-44) and the Philadelphia A's (1944-45).

He also saw some active service as a player during this period, appearing in 51 games in 1960. . . . El broke into professional baseball at Henderson, Texas, in 1947. . . . He was with Beaumont in the New York Yankee system when he came into the Cubs organization via draft by the Los Angeles Angels, then a Cub affiliate. . . . During his career as a catcher he was noted for his skill in handling pitchers, as well as his all-around defensive ability. . . . Became the Cubs' bullpen coach in midseason of 1958, then gained experience as baseline coach in addition to handling instructional work with catchers. . . . He has been in the Cubs system since 1948, when he began his professional career as a catcher with Lumberton, S.C., of the Tobacco State League. . . . MESA—WHERE THE CUBS TRAIN

This is the 11th straight year in which the Cubs have conducted spring training activities in the friendly Western city of Mesa, located in central Arizona.

The superb desert climate of Arizona's famous "Valley of the Sun" is ideal for athletic conditioning. Mesa is a spic-and-span, attractive community with a charm all its own. Third largest city in Arizona, with a population of over 30,000, it is one of the Southwest's most popular winter resort centers.

First-class playing field and stands

The Cubs hold their workouts and spring home exhibition games in Rendezvous Park, one of the finest spring training fields. Playing surface and field dimensions are major league all the way. Fence distances are just a little shorter than at Wrigley Field in Chicago. Seating capacity: 5,000.

The clubhouse offers topnotch facilities. It has space and locker facilities to uniform 60 players without doubling up.

Special facilities and community co-operation

Built into the grandstand is a dormitory for players of the other clubs associated with the Cubs organization, which also train at Mesa. The dormitory provides living quarters for 160 players. Players on the major league squad live at the nearby Maricopa Inn. Mesa is also the home of the Cubs team in the Arizona Winter Instructional League in October-December.

The outstanding co-operation of the friendly community of Mesa is handled through a group of civic-minded citizens known as the Ho-Ho-Kam. Their name comes from that of an ancient Indian tribe. Operating as a non-profit group, the members play host to the Cubs during the training season.

THE STORY OF WRIGLEY FIELD

Everywhere in the world of sports, the home park of the Chicago Cubs has long been famous as "beautiful Wrigley Field."

Located in a residential section on Chicago's North Side, the park provides 36,755 comfortable seats for baseball fans. It is at the corner of Clark and Addison Sts. Area: 7.7 acres.

Constant program of improvement

The Chicago National League Ball Club takes pride in presenting its games in comfortable, attractive surroundings. Every effort is made to keep the stands spic and span, and the playing field in finest possible condition. To help provide a park-like atmosphere, the walls are covered with ivy vines instead of advertising signs. Nor is there any advertising on the big scoreboard, one of the most informative in baseball.

The club conducts a constant program of improvement and modernization. A new box seat deck was built several years ago. In 1958, new concrete slab facing was installed on much of the exterior. A modernized entrance and new ticket windows were installed at Addison-Sheffield in 1959. In 1960 a similar new project was completed at the Clark-Addison entrance.

Early history of the park

The Cubs moved to this location from the famous old West Side park in 1916. The present site had been the playing field of the Chicago Whales of the old Federal League. The grandstand was enlarged from 14,000 seats to 20,000 in 1922-23, and the park was doubled-decked in 1926-27.

The club put in wider seats in the boxes and grandstand in 1938. This provided greater comfort for the fans, reducing the seating capacity by several thousands.

For some years, the ball park was named Cubs Park. In 1926 it was renamed Wrigley Field, after the late William Wrigley Jr., who headed the club from 1919 until he passed away in January of 1932. The Cubs won two pennants under his leadership, and four more under Phil Wrigley, present-day owner and president of the club.

How to get tickets

Reserved box seat tickets for all games through the end of the season available by mail. Just send your order to Ticket Manager, Wrigley Field, Chicago 13, Ill. 22,500 grandstand and bleacher tickets go on sale the morning of every game.

You can also buy box seat tickets in advance at the Wrigley Field ticket office at Addison and Sheffield and at Bond's downtown store, 234 S. State St., near Jackson.

How to get to the park

Located at Clark and Addison Sts., 3600 North, 1000 West. Clark-Wentworth and Addison buses take you to main gates. North Side "L" trains take you to ¼ block from ball park.

The flags of Wrigley Field

At every game Old Glory flies from the centerfield masthead, highest point in the park. The flags of the 10 National League cities and 8 states are flown at the Clark St. entrance.

Before and during each game 10 pennants, one for each club in the National League, fly from the yardarms in the order of the League standings on the morning of the game—the first place team's pennant on top at the left, the 10th place team's pennant on the bottom at the right.

The Chicago Cubs flag—red and white on a blue background —displays 16 red stars representing the Club's 16 National League Championships. The two blue stars represent the Club's two World Championships.
